Dear Secretary of State,

We are writing to you on behalf of over 31,000 supporters of Pancreatic Cancer UK, who have backed our Don't Write Me Off campaign. Together, we are calling for a faster, fairer treatment and care pathway for people diagnosed with pancreatic cancer.

Right now, 7 in 10 people with pancreatic cancer receive no treatment at all. That is simply not good enough, and we need to see an urgent change in the outcomes for people affected by this terrible disease. We are languishing at the bottom of the international leaderboards for pancreatic cancer survival, and have seen these rates stay stubbornly low for the last 50 years.

Pancreatic cancer doesn't have to be a death sentence. With a faster, fairer treatment and care journey, and funding to make it happen, more people can be treated and have a chance to survive.

We have worked with a group of 200 healthcare professionals, experts and people affected by pancreatic cancer to develop an Optimal Care Pathway for the disease. If the UK Government supports the implementation of the pathway in England, and provides sustainable funding to make it happen, treatment rates could double, and the UK could move into the top five of comparable European nations for survival.

We, and the thousands of people backing our campaign, are demanding the following:

- Faster: Diagnosis within 21 days of being sent for tests, and treatment within 21 days of diagnosis.
- Fairer: Expert care and support for everyone, no matter where they live, or their chance of survival.
- Funded: Sustained funding to make these changes possible, so more people can be saved.

Now is the time to act to ensure better outcomes for people diagnosed with pancreatic cancer. Please meet with us at your earliest convenience to discuss how we can work together to drive up survival rates for people with the deadliest common cancer.

Yours sincerely

Diana Jupp
